Internal Dispute Resolution Procedures (IDRP)

Employees' Guide

Note : This information provides a straightforward guide to how the internal dispute resolution procedure operate in the Local Government Pension Scheme, and is provided for general information only. It does not cover every aspect. It is not an interpretation of the scheme regulations. In the event of any unintentional differences, the scheme regulations will prevail. This guidance does not confer any contractual or statutory rights.

ENQUIRIES

If you are not sure which benefits you are entitled to, or you have a problem with your benefits, please either phone the number on the letter your employer or administering authority sent you, or contact the Powys County Council Pension Fund.

Many problems that members have are, in fact, resolved in this way. They may be caused by misunderstandings or wrong information, which can be explained or put right easily. An informal enquiry of this kind may save you a lot of time and trouble.

DECISIONS

From the day a person starts a job with an employer, to the day when benefits or survivor's benefits are paid, the employer and the administering authority have to make decisions under the Pension Scheme rules that affect you (or your surviving beneficiaries). When you (or your dependants) are notified of a decision you should check, as far as you can, that it is based on the correct details and that you agree with the decision.

COMPLAINTS

If you are not satisfied with any decision affecting you made in relation to the Pension Scheme, you have the right to ask for it to be looked at again under the formal complaint procedure. You also have a right to use the procedure if a decision should have been made by your employer or administering authority, but it hasn't been. The complaint procedure's official name is the "internal dispute resolution procedure".

There are also a number of other regulatory bodies, such as The Pensions Advisory Service (TPAS) which may be able to help you. They are described in the "Additional Help" section below.

The formal complaint procedure has two stages. Many complaints are resolved at the first stage. Any complaint you make should be treated seriously, and considered thoroughly and fairly.

You can ask someone to take your complaint forward on your behalf. This could be, for instance, a trade union official, welfare officer, your husband, wife or partner, or a friend.

No charge is made at any stage for investigating a complaint under the internal dispute resolution procedure. But expenses that you will have to meet are your own (and/or your representative's) time, stationery and postage.

At any stage during the formal complaint procedure you can contact the Pensions Advisory Service (TPAS) for information and advice (see "Additional Help" section).

Please remember that, before going to the trouble of making a formal complaint your employer and the Powys County Council Pension Fund will welcome the opportunity to try to resolve the matter about which you are dissatisfied in an informal way. It may be worth checking again that they know you are concerned, and why.

First stage

If you need to make a formal complaint, you should make it:

in writing, using the application form at pages 6-8, and within 6 months of the day when you were told of the decision you want to complain about.

Your complaint will be considered carefully by a person nominated by the body that took the decision against which you wish to complain. This guide calls them the "Specified Person" That person is required to give you their decision in writing.

If the Specified Person's decision is contrary to the decision you complained about, the employer or administering authority who made that original decision will now have to deal with your case in accordance with the Specified Person's decision.

If the decision you complained about concerned the exercise of a discretion by the employer or administering authority, and the Specified Person decides that the employer or administering authority should reconsider how they exercised their discretion, they will be required to reconsider their original decision.

Second Stage

You can ask the pension scheme administering authority to take a fresh look at your complaint in any of the following circumstances :

you are not satisfied with the Specified Person's first-stage decision, you have not received a decision or an interim letter from the Specified Person, and it is 3 months since your lodged your complaint, it is one month after the date by which the Specified Person told you (in an interim letter) that they would give you a decision, and you have still not received that decision.

This second stage review will be undertaken by a person not involved in the first stage decision.

You will need to send the appropriate administering authority your complaint in writing. The time limits for making the complaint are set out in the table on pages 9-10. The administering authority will consider your complaint and give you their decision in writing.

If you are still unhappy following the administering authority's second stage decision, you can take your case to the Pensions Ombudsman provided you do so within 3 years from the date of the original decision (or lack of a decision) about which you are complaining.

ADDITIONAL HELP

The Pensions Advisory Service (TPAS)

At any time if you are having difficulties in sorting out your complaint, you may wish to contact TPAS.

TPAS can provide free advice and information to explain your rights and responsibilities.

To get information or guidance, you can look at the website www.pensionsadvisoryservice.org.uk or you can contact TPAS by phone, post, email or fax.

The Pensions Helpline phone number is 0845 6012923 (local call rate)

Lines are manned Monday to Friday 9am to 5pm. Outside of these times, you can leave your number and someone will phone back later.

You can write to :

The Pensions Advisory Service
11 Belgrave Road
London
SW1V 1RB

Email : enquiries@pensionsadvisoryservice.org.uk

Fax : 020 7233 8016

If you have received a second-stage decision under the Local Government Pension Scheme internal dispute resolution procedure, and you are not satisfied with that decision, and still think your complaint is well-founded, TPAS may be able to help to resolve your complaint or dispute. Before asking for TPAS help in resolving a dispute, you must have already tried to settle it using the LGPS internal dispute resolution procedure described above.

A TPAS adviser cannot force a pension scheme to take a particular step but, if they think your complaint is justified, they will try to resolve the problem through conciliation and mediation. TPAS would need copies of all relevant documents, including the correspondence about your complaint under the internal complaints procedure and how it was dealt with.

Pensions Ombudsman

The Ombudsman investigates complaints and settles disputes about pension schemes. However, before contacting the Ombudsman, the Pensions Ombudsman's Office would normally expect you to have :

been given first-stage and second-stage internal dispute resolution procedure decisions by the Local Government Pension Scheme;

and asked for the help of TPAS.

The Pensions Ombudsman is completely independent and acts as an impartial adjudicator. His role and powers have been decided by Parliament.

There is no charge for using the Pensions Ombudsman's services.

The Ombudsman cannot investigate matters where legal proceedings have already started but, subject to that, he can settle disputes about matters of fact or law as they affect occupational pension schemes.

He can also investigate and decide any complaint or dispute about the maladministration of a pension scheme. "Maladministration" is about the way that a decision is taken, rather than about the merits of the decision. Examples of maladministration would be unreasonable delay, neglect, giving wrong information and discrimination.

The Ombudsman's decision is final and binding on all the parties, subject to any appeal made to the High Court on a point of law.

You must refer your complaint to the Ombudsman within 3 years of the event about which you are complaining, or within 3 years of when you first became aware of the problem.

The Ombudsman is at the same address as TPAS :

The Pensions Ombudsman
11 Belgrave Road
London
SW1V 1RB

Other ways to contact him are :
